Professional Experience

John Frederickson joined Cushman & Wakefield Edmonton as a Senior Associate to continue his distinguished commercial real estate career by advancing his clients strategic plans and solving business problems through real estate solutions. Prior to joining Cushman & Wakefield John was the Regional Vice President at a global real estate brokerage firm in Edmonton responsible for leading a large and diverse team across all asset classes and was instrumental in building market share through recruiting and client facing business development. John has spent 20 years in the commercial real estate brokerage business in both management and sales/leasing roles. He was also the Director of Office Leasing and Director of Real Estate Management at Oxford Properties Group in Edmonton for 10 years. John is well versed in property management, asset management, parking management and managing tenant improvement and capital construction projects. He is well connected nationally and deeply connected in Western Canada to occupiers, developers and owners of commercial real estate and leverages these relationships to serve his clients. John is well known and respected in the real estate community and the greater overall business community. John is working within the Office Division and focuses on tenant and landlord leasing representation and sales, working with investors and owner occupiers. He is a regular contributor to the Canadian Real Estate Forum and various industry organizations in Edmonton.
